THEME: SELLING THE CARIBBEAN

ABOUT THE FORUM

Despite the constant changes in the travel distribution system, the Caribbean Tourism Organization has always recognized that travel agents play an important role in the sale of Caribbean vacations. The NY Times, USA Today and Times Magazine and a recent MMGY global study agree that across the board, both demographic and generational groups have increased their use of travel agents to facilitate their travel bookings. It is in the best interest of the Caribbean travel industry to continue to provide these professionals with the tools and information that will keep the Caribbean top of mind when they discuss vacation options with their clients. This is the industry's opportunity to present qualified travel agents with relevant information to equip them to match their discerning clients with their best fit for their perfect wedding, honeymoon or vacation.
